

Breaking the cycle of disadvantage to building a life of Impact

Dear Nekesa (Harvester),

Thank you for your faithful support of Bungoma Bible Ministries. It is through your support we are able feed, cloth, and love the children in our care. In addition, you are giving our boys the opportunity that they would never have had without your financial support. You have given them the gift of education. An opportunity to create a life that is not dependent on the goodwill of the government, but rather the opportunity to build a life of impact!

We are thrilled to announce a significant milestone in the lives of three of these young boys at our Children's home - Vincent Juma, Aaron Wafula and Morgan Wafula. For the first time, they have embarked on their high school journey, stepping into this new world with enthusiasm and anticipation. This moment marks a pivotal stage in their growth and development, symbolizing not only academic progression but also personal achievement and new opportunities.

These three young boys have experienced hard challenges and adversity in their young lives, before coming to Bungoma Children's Home as orphans. We are honored the Lord has placed these 3 young boys in our care. It has been through the unwavering support and this nurturing environment, provided by our dedicated staff, that Vincent, Aaron, and Morgan have flourished. These 3 young men now stand at the threshold of a new chapter filled with promise and potential.

As they settle into their new surroundings at their new high school, it's evident that excitement permeates the air. Eager to explore all facets of high school life, they expressed enthusiasm for joining in the different activities such as trying their hand at drama, music, and sports. All three young men are eager to seize the chance to uncover and develop their individual talents.

Beyond the immediate joys of newfound experiences, it's essential to recognize the profound impact this opportunity holds for their future aspirations.

We currently have 7 other boys in High School. For all 10 of these boys, high school isn't just a stepping stone; it's a bridge toward realizing their dreams of attending college one day. This education opens doors to endless possibilities, empowering them to break free from the cycle of disadvantage and build a life of impact for themselves and their future families.

The enrollment of all our boys in high school is not merely a personal triumph but a testament to the collective efforts of our community in nurturing and empowering the next generation. It is a reminder of the profound impact that love, support, and education can have in shaping the destinies of young lives, and we are honored to be a part of their remarkable journey.

Thank you, our dear Nekesa partners, for your continued financial support to help these boys break the cycle of disadvantage and build a life of impact for generations.

Forever Grateful,
Justus Ochuro
